

RESNA leadership is excited this year about our upcoming annual conference in Arlington, VA, July 13th through July 16th, which recently opened for registration.

We're also announcing a new Emerging and Late-Breaking Research paper session.

Please consider submitting an abstract or pass this message to your colleagues and encourage them to submit an abstract to RESNA by April 30, 2018.

Approved authors will be asked to present at one of two poster sessions during the RESNA conference

We anticipate that through your participation this collection of work will be stunning.

Deadline: Monday, April 30, 2018 at 11:59PM ET

RESNA has long been a place where researchers, engineers, technology practitioners, consumers, and manufacturers who have a keen interest in staying on top of the field convene. This is where the interdisciplinary interaction develops further. RESNA encourages more innovation, more value, and more action. More for the people who are counting on us both now and in the future.
Most cordially and enthusiastically,

RESNA 2018 Conference Team
